Student Safety is Paramount

Safety is a community-wide, shared responsibility at NC State. The University Police Department provides professional law enforcement, effective emergency response, crime and incident reduction and community outreach & education.

Your student’s safety is paramount to us. As a community, we are dedicated to not only protecting your student but also empowering them through safety education so that they can better safeguard themselves and their property.

Please remind your students of these essential safety tips:
- Do not leave belongings unattended for any length of time.
- If walking at night, be sure to walk in groups and stay within well-lit areas. Always be aware of your surroundings. Use alternative transportation or our University safety escort services.

Visit campuspolice.ehps.ncsu.edu for more information.

Housing Tips

Community Standards and Guidelines is a summary of the policies and procedures for on-campus living. Parents are encouraged to become familiar with these, and other, resident resources on the housing website.

Talk to your student about the Roommate Agreement, a mandatory agreement between roommates that helps to establish expectations and guidelines that everyone can agree on for the academic year. Thinking about these expectations, outlining concerns and being open to compromise will be beneficial to the success of the living arrangement. Planning ahead for this sometimes awkward conversation will help students feel prepared when they sit down with their roommate(s).

Maintenance issue? Our full-time maintenance staff will ensure that your student’s needs are met. Your student must submit a work order online to resolve an issue.

Visit housing.ncsu.edu for more helpful information.

Pack Parent
Welcome Pack Parents & Families

NC State is excited to embark on another year of valued partnership with the parents and families of our undergraduate students. Whether your student is new to NC State or back for another year, we are glad to have you as part of the Wolfpack family.

Within this newsletter you will find information about our annual Parents & Families Weekend, September 15 - 17, as well as important reminders from University Housing and the NC State Police Department. All are helpful messages for you and your student as we enter the 2017 - 2018 academic year.

We are dedicated to keeping Pack Parents connected. Please look to your email for our quarterly Hello, NC State Parents! e-newsletter and our monthly conversation calendars. Be sure to check out our website at parents.ncsu.edu and follow us on social media @NCStatePFS on facebook, twitter and instagram for additional information and updates.

Don’t forget! We have the Parents’ HelpLine available Monday - Friday at 919.515.2441 or via email at ncstateparents@ncsu.edu for questions or concerns at anytime. We look forward to another successful year.

GO PACK!
